The general terms and conditions of sale shall apply in accordance with the regulatory section of the Book II of the French Tourism Code on the conditions to exercise the activities relating to the organisation and the sale of packages or journeys.

The provisions of articles R.211-3 to 211-11 are reproduced in full below.

R. 211-3

Subject to the exceptions specified in Article L. 212-7, paragraphs 3 and 4, any offer for and any sale of travel or holiday packages shall be accompanied by appropriate documents, in compliance with the rules set forth in this section.

In the case of sales of air travel tickets or travel tickets on regular lines that do not include services in connection with such travel, the seller shall provide the buyer with one or more travel tickets for the entire trip, issued by the carrier or under the carrier's responsibility. In the case of on-demand transport, the name and address of the carrier on behalf of which the tickets are issued shall be stated.

The fact that the various components of a single tourist package are billed separately does not exempt the seller from complying with its obligations under the regulatory provisions of this section.

R. 211-3-1

The exchange of pre-contractual information or the provision of contractual terms and conditions shall be made in writing. This may also be done electronically, in accordance with the validity and procedural requirements specified in Articles 1369-1 to 1369-11 of the French Civil Code (Code Civil). 13 - If the contract includes air travel, the information concerning each flight segment required by Articles R. 211-15 to R. 211-18.

R. 211-5

The pre-contractual information provided to the consumer binds the seller, unless in the information document the seller expressly reserves the right to change certain items, in which case, the seller shall clearly state how such changes may be made and on what basis.

In any event, changes made to the pre-contractual information shall be communicated to the consumer before the contract is concluded.

R. 211-6

R. 211-8

If the contract includes an express price revision clause, within the limits prescribed by Article L. 212-12, the contract shall state the precise methods for calculating price variations, whether an increase or a decrease, in particular, the amount of transport costs and the taxes applicable thereto, the currency or currencies that may have an impact on the price of the travel or holiday package, the portion of the price to which the price variation applies and the exchange rate of the currency or currencies used as a reference in setting the contract price.

R. 211-9

If before the buyer's departure the seller must make a change to one of the material terms of the contract, such as a significant price increase, and if the seller does not comply with the obligation to inform prescribed in Article R. 211-4, paragraph 13, the buyer, without prejudice to his right to take action to obtain compensation for any loss sustained, and after informing the seller, using any means that permits obtaining acknowledgment of receipt, may:

- Terminate the contract and obtain immediate reimbursement of all sums paid, without penalty; or

- Agree to the change or replacement travel proposed by the seller. In such case, a contractual amendment specifying the changes made shall be signed by the parties. R. 211-10

In the cases referred to in Article R. 211-14, if before the buyer's departure the seller cancels the travel or holiday package, it shall inform the buyer thereof, using any means that permits obtaining acknowledgment of receipt. In such case, the buyer shall receive compensation at least equal to the penalty that he would have incurred if he had cancelled on that date.

The provisions of this article shall in no event prevent the conclusion of a settlement agreement pursuant to which the buyer accepts a replacement travel or holiday package offered by the seller.

R. 211-11

If after the buyer's departure the seller is unable to provide a significant portion of the services agreed under the contract, which represent an appreciable percentage of the price paid by the buyer, the seller shall immediately take the following measures, without prejudice to the buyer's right to take action to obtain compensation for any loss sustained:

- Offer replacement services for the services agreed, with the seller bearing any additional costs. If the services accepted by the buyer are inferior in quality, the seller shall, upon the buyer's return, refund the buyer the difference in price; or

- If the seller is unable to offer any replacement services or if the buyer refuses such replacement services on legitimate grounds, the seller shall provide the buyer, at no additional price, with travel tickets enabling the buyer to return, under conditions deemed equivalent, to the point of departure or to any other place agreed by both parties. The provisions of this article shall apply in the event of non-compliance with the obligation specified in Article R. 211-4, paragraph 13.
